

CODE OF CONDUCT

As a manager: I realize that my athletes are here to improve their skills, make new friendships, and be treated fairly and with sensitivity to their needs. I also realize that not all of my athletes are as serious about baseball as their manager and that I need to adjust accordingly to make their experience an enjoyable one. Hopefully, it will be an experience they will fondly remember when they are my age.

As a player: I realize that I have signed up to improve my baseball skills, make new friends, keep my old friends, and do the best I can to help my team. This includes coming to as many practices as possible, coming to as many games as possible, and playing where my manager feels I can make the biggest contribution to the team. I know that there might be times that I don't play in the position I necessarily want to, but I will do my best in whatever position I am assigned for the good of my team.

As a parent: I need to be supportive of my child's manager as long as he or she is treating my athlete in a kind and nurturing manner. I must realize that the position he or she puts my athlete in to play may not be the one that I agree with, but since he or she has volunteered to coach the team, he or she has the task of making those decisions. I need to realize that the athletes on the field are the focus of the game. I can not draw attention to myself by acting in a manner that would do so. I need to be supportive of the umpires. Over the course of the game their decisions will even out. And lastly, I need to make sure my athlete gets to as many practices and games as possible since my athlete depends on me.

By signing the registration form provided by the Munson Baseball League I have agreed to abide by the Code of Conduct.
